

MOBILE STATION INTERNET MESSAGING

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A wireless communications network provides the power status for mobile stations served by the wireless communications network to Internet service providers. Internet service providers

5 make the power status for mobile stations available to Internet service provider subscribers. By knowing the power status of a particular mobile device, Internet service provider subscribers can send messages to the mobile device or may call the mobile device, knowing that it is activated and will receive the call.

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION